Wood Product Disclaimer

KOROGARD Wall Protection Systems provides the highest quality materials for the best possible fit and installation. Natural wood products often exhibit certain inherent inconsistencies. The product you are installing may be subject to conditions such as natural color variation, grain structure, porosity, etc.

Due to the minerals in the earth, all wood species will contain color variations in spite of the selected stain. Mineral absorptions and deposits vary from location to location and species to species. The darkening of all woods is a natural occurrence that takes place at different rates between species. The conditions above lead to a natural variation in color and grain. This is why KOROGARD suggests you sort through the material you receive prior to installation. Arrange the material in ways that help reduce these natural inconsistencies.
